Community Associates: Who are we?

The Off-Campus Housing Community Associates—OCH CAs—are Stanford students who support students living in off-campus housing (and their partners) to make your experience comfortable, rewarding, and fun!

With support from the Graduate Life Office (glo.stanford.edu; see final page for more information), we build community for OCH residents and are a resource for YOU when you have residential or social concerns.

OCH CAs can be found doing all kinds of things for residents, such as...

...helping new students get acclimated to campus upon arrival.

...planning and hosting social, recreational and cultural events in their neighborhoods and around town.

...referring residents to helpful campus resources.

...working with residents to resolve minor conflicts.

...acting as your first point of contact for any housing/roommate concerns.

All CAs receive training in interpersonal conflict resolution, suicide recognition and prevention, handling domestic abuse and sexual harassment and assault issues, and emergency preparedness training.
The Graduate Life Office (GLO)

At the GLO, our specialty is helping graduate students, and we are here to help you navigate the issues, challenges and complications that are an inevitable part of life. In addition to reaching out to your CAs, you can contact GLO direction with questions and concerns.

The Graduate Life Office (GLO) can assist with a variety of situations including, but not limited to:

- Personal issues
- Roommate problems
- Family and health concerns
- Academic challenges
- Financial difficulties

If you would like to speak with your Graduate Life Dean please contact:

- Christine Gibo Crapps: cgibo@stanford.edu

If you have a need for immediate help that can't wait for business hours, the GLO deans are accessible 24/7.

1. Phone the GLO pager at 650-723-8222 and enter ID # 25085.
2. You will be contacted directly by return call.
